

OYAMA DROVE RUSSIA BACK

Japanese General Reports That He Repulsed The Russians Who Left Many Dead.

KUROPATKIN IS ON THE OFFENSIVE

War Critics Announce That This May Result in His Defeat and the Capture of His Entire Force.

London, Oct. 19.—Oyama reports to the war office under date of Tuesday that he repulsed all Russian attacks and that the Russians had retreated, leaving a great number of dead.

At St. Petersburg, however, it is asserted that Kuropatkin has resumed his advance and that his army, with 280,000 men and 900 guns, has crossed the Shakhe river.

The St. Petersburg belief in a Russian advance is based upon unofficial telegrams received by news agencies from Mukden.

One Mukden dispatch says: "It is reported that the Russian army is advancing."

The same dispatch adds: "News has just been received that the Japanese left flank has been driven back with heavy loss."

Another Mukden dispatch says: "Shakhe station, or what is left of it, has been captured by the Russians, who will shortly reopen it for railway traffic with Mukden."

Battle Still Continues. It is certain, however, that the battle continues along almost the whole front and that it is particularly heavy in front of Oku's army.

Since Sunday night the battle has been waged principally on a line six miles long, extending along the south bank of the Shakhe river, almost due east from Shakhe railroad station.

Sunday night the Russians, after one of the most spectacular pieces of battle work, captured Lone Tree hill, at the extreme east of the line. They recaptured Shakhe station on the extreme west of the line and the village of Shaniandiz, half way between Shakhe and Lone Tree hill.

Oku's effort to turn the right flank of the Russian right army near Shakhe station was checked at Linchinpu, two miles west of Shakhe.

Second Battle at Lone Tree.

Monday night the Japanese attempted to recapture Lone Tree hill, for apparently it is the key to the whole position facing Oku's army. Nine regiments approached the Lone Tree hill position during the night and delivered a furious assault at dawn. Tuesday morning, Russian dispatches from Mukden, dated Tuesday evening, say the Japanese were driven back with heavy losses.

The Russians scored heavily in the fighting north of the Shakhe river Sunday night, cutting off Maj. Gen. Yamada's column, killing or wounding 1,500 men and capturing fourteen guns.

Oyama Reports Victory. Tokyo, Oct. 19.—A telegram from Field Marshal Oyama says:

"On the night of Oct. 17 the enemy made two fierce counter attacks against the right column of the left army, besides a counter attack on a small scale in the direction of the center and right armies."

"We repulsed them entirely. The enemy retreated, leaving a great number of dead."

A report telling of the disaster to Gen. Yamada and his loss of fourteen guns, and stating the conditions at the front, is as follows:

"On the evening of Oct. 16 a mixed detachment under command of Maj. Gen. Yamada was sent to help part of the left army attacking the enemy north of the Shakhe river. It commenced its operations at the right wing, driving off the enemy. The detachment captured two guns and two ammunition wagons."

"Having attained its object the detachment, after sunset under cover of the darkness, began retiring toward its original position.

Detachment Is Surrounded.

"In the meantime at 7 o'clock the enemy, a division strong, made a vigorous advance and enveloped both wings of the detachment. Severe hand-to-hand fighting ensued."

"The detachment succeeded in driving off the enemy in front, but was unable to resist him on both flanks."

"Our artillery lost most of its men and horses, and was compelled to leave behind nine field and five mountain guns."

"The enemy in front of the left army remains in the position he occupied yesterday. The front line of all our columns fired slowly until sunset."

"The enemy in front has been heavily reinforced—especially in front of our center army has the enemy's strength been enormously increased."

"The enemy's strength against our left flank of the left army amounts to a mixed brigade."

"Our casualties during the battle of Oct. 16 reached about 1,000."

Russians Call It a Victory.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 19.—Victory is the keynote of the war news in the papers. The additional capture of Japanese guns on Sunday, with unofficial accounts of other captures on Monday, bring the total number of pieces taken from the Japanese up to thirty-four. The Russians are reported to have broken the Japanese center and to be gaining ground everywhere, they having succeeded in entering the enemy into the plain where Gen. Kuropatkin threatens their flank. This is the first name day of the infant czarévitch, and the coincidence therewith of the most important successes the Russians have achieved in the campaign is hailed by the elated press with optimism.

There is jubilation throughout the city over the news that Gen. Kuropatkin has resumed the offensive, and the holiday, which began with little heart, closed brighter.

Newsboys up to midnight raced through the thoroughfares with evening extras, shouting "Great Russian victory," and the crowds bought the papers.

Some of the newspapers, notably the Russ, boldly print the announcement in big headlines: "The Russians resume the advance. Kuropatkin has crossed the Shakhe river. He has 280,000 men and 900 guns."

Arouses Satisfaction. Correspondents at the front for the last forty-eight hours have been hinting that the Russian army was on the eve of another advance, but it was thought here that the troops were too exhausted by more than a week of battle to engage in an immediate advance movement. Therefore the rumors of the definite resumption of the advance aroused the greater satisfaction.

The news of the Russian advance, has not been officially corroborated, but in the best informed circles it is accepted as true. It is believed that Gen. Kuropatkin intended to signalize the czarévitch's fete by a victory, just as Grand Duke Nicholas did at Plevna.

The failure of the war office to give out dispatches is attributed to the holiday, the emperor's commission disbanding early. It is reported generally, however, that the emperor has received a telegram from Gen. Kuropatkin reporting that the Russians are moving forward.

Would Settle All Discussions. Secretary of War Taft is to visit Panama and Go Over the Details.

[Special by Scripps-Mellae.] Washington, Oct. 19.—The president today instructed Secretary of War Taft to make a personal visit to Panama and confer with the president and other officials of the Republic regarding the questions arising out of the possession by the United States of the canal zone. The secretary will leave on November 14th. Taft will take with him Minister Obaldia, William Nelson Cromwell, counsel of the New Panama canal Co. It is now stated, says the situation has been most strained and open rupture between the two countries barely averted. The feeling in Panama is bitter against the United States regarding dynamiting the canal.

DANE COUNTY IS VERY DEMOCRATIC

Four Thousand Republicans Will Vote Against La Follette at Coming Election.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 19.—At least 4,000 of the 10,000 republican voters of Dane county, in which is situated the capital city of the state, will not support the republican county and state tickets. This information was obtained yesterday at the headquarters of the democratic county committee. The democrats are unthrust over the situation and are making every effort to carry the county by a big majority. At the last general election about 17,000 votes were cast in the county of which 10,000 were republicans and 7,000 democrats. Leaders of the democratic party assert that they will probably only lose 1,000 votes, supporters of Governor La Follette. This would give the democrats a majority of about 3,000.

Governor La Follette realized that a large amount of work must be done in this county. He begins the campaign at Mount Horeb tonight and will traverse the county in his automobile for several days, making eight and nine speeches a day. The stalwarts have opened headquarters in this city and will fight for the national republican ticket, headed by ex-Governor Scofield, until the polls close on the eve of November 8.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES

A joint conference of the Scotch and north of England steelmakers yesterday decided to form a combination for the regulation of selling prices.

James W. Johnson, a farmer, residing near Toledo, O., was shot and killed by corn thieves whom he discovered in his fields.

An unsuccessful attempt was made to wreck the Colorado and Wyoming railroad bridge near Sopris, Col., with dynamite.

Frank Kidwell, aged 22, ran against an overhead while riding on a hand car on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad at Pana, Ill., and was killed.

A decided flurry in hops was caused at Tacoma, Wash., by a private cablegram from Nuremberg, saying prices of all descriptions continue to advance.

Alexander J. Garnett, who shot and killed Major J. M. McClung at the Palace hotel in San Francisco, was sentenced to serve fifteen years in the penitentiary.

JEFFERIS SOAKS TRUTHS HOME

Does Not Mince Matters in Talking to Congressman Cooper in Racine.

Congressman H. A. Cooper of Racine was brought prominently into the state campaign at Kenosha in a most sensational manner when M. G. Jeffris mentioned his name in connection with a discourse on political cowardice last evening. Mr. Jeffris had almost completed his remarks when he stepped to the front of the platform and in a dramatic manner exclaimed: "I am no political coward."

"Continuing he said: 'I understand that there is a private secretary in the hall tonight taking notes of what I have to say in regard to political cowardice. Last night when I was speaking in Racine I said 'I am no political coward,' and I said that I didn't believe in a man being on the fence, and when the wind veered to one side he crawled down and shouts, 'There is where I have always been.' I didn't mention any names last night, but while walking on the streets of Racine this morning H. A. Cooper, congressman from the First district, came up to me and in an excited manner said: 'I want you to understand, Mr. Jeffris, that I am no political coward.' Put that down, will you, Mr. Stenographer," shouted the speaker, and his shout was lost in the great wave of applause that followed.

The Jeffris meeting was the greatest held in Kenosha during the campaign, and this, notwithstanding the fact that the followers of the governor had sent orders to the faithful in the city that they should not be seen at the operation. Mr. Jeffris spoke to the capacity of the house and the aisles were crowded with voters who cheered his every utterance.

On the platform with Mr. Jeffris were all the leaders of the republican party in the city and county and the speaker was introduced by E. L. Grant, one of the best known of the party leaders in the city. Mr. Jeffris spoke only of state issues and brought them home to the people by interpreting them with examples taken from the factories of Kenosha. He told the story of Gov. La Follette's campaign and repeatedly laid bare the statements which had been made by the governor. As he continued to talk the word went abroad that the speech was the greatest ever heard in the city of Kenosha, and the corridors of the opera-house filled with men who could scarcely get within hearing of the speaker's voice.

Many times during the two hours and a half Mr. Jeffris was forced to cease speaking on account of the great applause accorded his utterances, and men who had been strong supporters of the governor sat through the entire speech.

TAGGART GOES TO VISIT INDIANA

Democratic National Chairman Will Combine Pleasure, Business, and Politics.

COUNCIL TAKES A DECIDED STAND

War Between the Madison Common Council and the School Board Over Appropriations.

[Special by Scripps-Mellae.] Madison, Wis., Oct. 19.—War exists between members of the common council and the school board of the city of Madison. The board, by request of the city fathers, submitted a long report of its business transactions for the past two years relative to the building of a new high school and asked the council to appropriate $250,000 for a new structure. Eight members of the council charged the board with dishonesty and hinted at graft by an alderman who was formerly on the board. These eight demanded an investigation while the other eight place the utmost confidence in the honesty of the school board which is composed of reputable citizens. Judge Anthony Donovan of the municipal court is president of the board. At a special meeting of the council yesterday a number of aldermen called each other dishonest and corrupt. Bad feeling exists and the fight is by no means at an end. A joint meeting will be held between the council and the board Thursday night.

WHEAT PRICES GO JUMPING UPWARD

Reports of the Hessian Fly and Wet Weather Is Enough To Make Market Jump.

[Special by Scripps-Mellae.] Chicago, Oct. 19.—Continued reports of the Hessian fly in Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois and the claim that the rains during the threshing season in the northwest caused much damage and sent wheat up with a jump this morning. December closed last night at 1.14 3/8 and went to 1.16 1/8. May closed at 1.12 5/8 and went to 1.14 1/4 this morning. Corn also advanced.

ORPHAN ASYLUM IS BURNED TODAY

Two Children Are Known To Have Perished—Several Others Were Injured.

GREAT LOSS IS NOT CREDITED

Cunard Line Know Nothing of the Loss of Life This Morning.

REPORT WAS THOUSANDS DROWNED

The Week Was Said To Have Occurred Off the Coast of Spain, and Twenty-Two Hundred Emigrants Were Lost.

London, Oct. 19.—The rumor from Vienna that a Cunard liner with 2,200 emigrants aboard had sunk off the coast of Spain is given no credence here. The Cunard liner officials have no news of any disaster to any of their vessels.

London, Oct. 19.—A Vienna dispatch to the London Standard gives a rumor current in that city this morning to the effect that a Cunard steamship from Flume, with 2,200 emigrants aboard, has sunk off the Spanish coast. A fierce storm was raging at the time.

The Standard has no confirmation of the report, but gives it for what it is worth. The Standard, it must be said, is one of the most reliable of the English newspapers.

Flume is in the Adriatic sea, and is Hungary's only port. It is almost opposite Venice.

Might Be One of Four. New York, Oct. 19.—The Cunard line has four slow steamers on its Mediterranean-Adriatic service. They are the Uronia, Slavonia, Pannonia, and Carpathia. All fly the British flag and are commanded by British sailing masters, several of whom belong to the royal naval reserve. The ports of sailing are Flume, Trieste, Naples and Gibraltar. All these are called at to gather the large number of Hungarian, Austrian, Italian and Spanish emigrants which these boats carry in addition to southern European freight.

The Uronia sailed to-day for Europe. The Carpathia is now en route to Naples.

The Slavonia was reported at Gibraltar Oct. 12. She is commanded by Capt. Barr.

The Pannonia is commanded by Capt. Potter. Both are known as careful officers.

Vernon H. Brown, general agent of the Cunard line here, has had no advices regarding a disaster as reported in Vienna and London.

WILL BE HEAD OF MEXICAN MERGER

Former President of the Rock Island Has New Position Offered Him.

BISHOPS PASSED A VERY RIGID SET OF RULINGS

Propose To Deny Holy Communion to the Guilty Party in Suit for Divorce.

[Special by Scripps-Mellae.]

Boston, Mass., Oct. 19.—Action to make the regulations of the church more binding and more definite on the subject of divorce was taken by the house of bishops of the Episcopal church at Tuesday's session of their convention here. The following section was adopted as a part of the canon on divorce:

"The judgment of the Bishop shall always be taken before a divorced person, who has a former husband or wife still living and who is married to another, may be confirmed or permitted to receive the holy communion; provided that the sacraments shall in no case be refused to any penitent person in imminent danger of death, nor to the innocent party in a divorce granted for adultery."

Sent To Committee. No final action was taken by the convention on several resolutions referring to divorce which were presented. The house of Bishops sent a message to the deputies informing them that the Bishops had voted to forbid the remarriage of any divorced person, but when the matter was laid before the deputies on the question of concurrence the Rev. Drs. Lewis Parks and W. D. Huntington, both of New York, immediately set the parliamentary machinery in motion to defeat or at least sidetrack the bishops' resolution. After a brief but spirited skirmish the matter was referred to the committee on canons, from which it can be called at any time.

During the forenoon several resolutions favoring a stricter canon on marriage and divorce were referred to a committee.

Seeks Uniform Standard. The divorce matter again came to the fore through a resolution of George Foster Peabody of Brooklyn, calling for the appointment of twelve members for both houses, to consider the entire question and report to the next general convention. The committee is to confer with other religious bodies as to some uniform standard of legislation bearing on marriage and divorce. It was referred to the committee on canons.

A joint commission, appointed three years ago, presented an extended report recommending that all dioceses and missionary districts be grouped into seven provinces, each province to have authority to legislate on matters which do not conflict with the general convention. Each province is to elect a primate to preside over it. The report will be acted upon later.

No Action on Negro Bishop. The house of deputies decided to refer a proposition to elect a negro bishop for the Southern states to the next convention.

The house of Bishops nominated the Rev. Logan H. Root of Arkansas for bishop of Hankow, China; the Rev. Frank S. Spaulding of Erie, Pa., for bishop of Salt Lake, and the Rev. A. W. Knight of Atlanta, Ga., for bishop of Cuba. The nominations will have to be ratified by the house of deputies to become effective.

RIO GRANDE HAS RISEN RAPIDLY

Mexican Families Near El Paso Have Been Forced To Leave Their Homes.

[Special by Scripps-Mellae.] Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 19.—The reports this morning say the Rio Grande is on another rampage and rapidly rising in western Texas, near El Paso. Many families being forced to leave their homes and seek safety on the Mexican side of the river.

CHILDREN MET A FEARFUL DEATH

Little Tots Aged Two and Three Burned to Death in Their Father's Home.

[Special by Scripps-Mellae.] Hartington, Neb., Oct. 19.—Doris Barnhart, aged 3 years; Hazel Barnhart, aged 3, and Bertha Folber, a domestic, are dead as the result of a fire in the home of W. Barnhart. Miss Folber threw kerosene into a stove, causing an explosion.

The Roshayvanla, O. bank, owned by Kenyon Brothers, has gone into bankruptcy.

THE TWILIGHT CLUB DECIDES THAT WAR IN THE EAST SHOULD CEASE

And Appoints A. E. Matheson and Rev. Vaughn as Committee To Communicate Sentiment to President Roosevelt—Opening Meeting Was Greatly Enjoyed.

As everybody anticipated, it was the poor Slav who got the worst of it in the battle for recognition before the Twilight Club last evening. He had valiant defenders who upheld his religion, ideals, scholarly attainments, his ruler, and even in a measure his government. Some essayed to vindicate his territorial aggrandizement in the east on the ground that he alone could be trusted to meddle with sleeping China, but none attempted to defend his broken promises and questionable diplomacy, except from a utilitarian standpoint. Sympathy remained for but a little time in that quarter. The "yellow peril" stalked quite majestically into the arena, but only to again seek cover with unbefitting haste. One clerkman, after demonstrating that the Jap was the real American of the Orient, expressed a fervent hope that the entire Russian navy would soon be of the stationary submarine type. Another found the Russian to be submerged in almost hopeless barbarism and superstition—a worshiper of graven images. This view was of course vigorously combated. (Telling the Jap had been variously pictured as an "under-sized heathen" and a "glorious little fighter" and bitter denunciations of the Jap for his oppression of the liberty-loving Finns had been renewed, a "view-with-alarm" opened fire on both sides by declaring that United States was countenancing oppression in the Philippines, in comparison to which the little Finnish incident wasn't a circumstance. When the war had been raging about three hours a resolution calling upon President Roosevelt to use every means, in consonance with the law of nations, to bring about peace, was introduced. An amendment to the effect that the president be asked to take such action if he deems it consistent with the present policy in the Philippines was proposed and received with great scorn. All but a small minority then rallied under the banner of universal peace and a committee was appointed to communicate with the nation's executive.

Last night's meeting signaled the opening of the ninth season of this unique organization. Nearly a hundred and fifty members were seated at the long tables in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium at half-past six o'clock. Mrs. E. J. Kent had charge of the culinary preparations and the tempting supper was served under the direction of Mrs. J. S. Taylor by the following young ladies: Lucy Fox, Ida Greene, Ethel Fife, Ruth Fife, Bessie Church, Pearl Peters, Florence Spelman, Grace Winter, Anne DeForest, Sara MacLean, Daisy MacLean, Gladys Heddlie, and Crissie Galbraith. After the repast had been finished and the cigars were lighted, Leader George Sutherland opened the brief business session. The report of Treasurer Cleland showed a balance on hand of $72.19. The hour for meetings was definitely set for 6:15 p. m. On suggestion of the program committee it was decided to invite the G. A. R. members to be guests of the club at the February meeting at which "Patriotism" will be the topic. When it was suggested that war reminiscences would be in order that evening T. S. Nolan rose to inquire fearfully if the usual ten minute regulation was to be observed with regard to these war recollections. As H. Sheldon was elected leader of the discussion on "What's the Matter With Janesville?" which is scheduled for the November meeting and Judge Sale was chosen to lead the discussion of "Divorce" in December.

A Most Terrible Conflict
In introducing the discussion of the question "Should America Desire a Japanese or Russian Victory?" Leader Sutherland said: The topic assigned this evening is one of vital interest to all. Ever since the subject was chosen the respective nations have been engaged in one of the most terrible conflicts in the history of the world. I think that few of us in our school days ever studied Russia and Japan. While we studied Greek and Roman history and the history of Germany, France, and were almost unknown quantities. The committee did well in assigning the history of these two countries as the first topics. Judge Fife will speak on "Russia—Its Past, Present, Spain, the two countries in question and Future."

Russia's Great Extent
Judge Fife said: Russia's past, present, and future is a large topic for ten minutes. Russia, itself, is the largest single country with contiguous territory in the world. Great Britain alone surpasses it in extent. You see by the map that the major portion of Russia is in Asia. Asia is the largest of the continents and Siberia occupies one third of its territory. Asia is larger than North and South America put together and one province of Siberia is larger than the United States without its insular possessions. Russia's territory exceeds 8,500,000 square miles whereas the United States has only 3,600,000. Russia began back in 100 A. D. as a little country in the vicinity of the present city of St. Petersburg. It crept around towards Archangel on the White sea but had no shore-line on the Black sea. Sweden had such territory on the east of the Baltic but Archangel, on the White sea, was Russia's only seaport. The whole struggle since that time has been to establish an open seaport.

Learned War by Fighting
Peter the Great (1682-1725) was the first Russian emperor who accomplished anything in the work of making Russia a great nation. In his early life he worked in a shipyard in Holland, in order that he might learn the craft, and shortly after his accession he started a navy. He wanted a port on the Baltic and taking advantage of the young king on the throne of Sweden attacked his army. At first Russia was defeated even as it has been in the present war, but Peter merely said: "They'll teach us how to fight." Later he conquered and was ceded all the land southward to the Baltic. Catherine (1762-1796) extended her dominion southward to the Black sea, northward to the Caspian, and beyond the Caucasus mountains into Siberia. The occupation of Siberia was not by conquest. It was more like our own occupation in this continent. There were some wars and battles. Between 1238 and 1462 came the Tartar invasion which kept Russia down and in the end made the race partly Tartar. Thus Napoleon's saying: "Scratch a Russian and you'll find a Tartar." The first kings of Russia were descended from Rurik, a Swede, but after the Tartar invasion Michael Romanoff was elected and all the succeeding rulers have descended from him.

An Agricultural Nation
The inhabitants are primarily an agricultural people. Their farming is different from our own, however. The village life is the strong, national characteristic. All the farmers live in the village and the surrounding land is partitioned out to the heads of families by the town council. Every head must take the land so set off and pay the tax. In the southern black-earth country which resembles our prairie land, this is not a hardship. The Trans-Siberian railway traverses this farming country on a parallel 300 miles north of our Canadian Pacific. This railway which plays such an important part in the present war was commenced by an imperial edict of 1891. Except for the portion around the southern part of Lake Balkal, it is completed, and it cost the Russian government $400,000,000. Through a treaty with China made on Sept. 8, 1896, the Russian government was given authority to extend the line down through Manchuria to Port Arthur. The main line runs across northern Siberia to Vladivostok. Lake Balkal, twice the size of Lake Erie, was an obstacle. In the way of the railroad and it has been necessary to use great ice-breaking steamers in the transfer service. Much of the suffering during the first days of the war was occasioned by this difficult mode of travel. Since the opening of the war Russia has built a 125 mile line around the southern end of the lake, costing $2,000,000. The speaker believed the Russians to be an exceedingly patriotic people—simple and democratic. He deemed them capable of mixing with and governing the eastern races as no other nation could.

The Story of Japan
Prof. John Arbuthnot spoke of Japan. Its past he said was little known and its authentic history dated back only to 460 A. D. Japan claims to have had a history before that time but writing was not introduced until about that time when the Chinese brought the art together with the religion of Confucianism, until 1868. Through these years the country was nominally ruled by the mikado but in reality by the powerful family of the Shogun. The country was discovered by Europeans in 1542 and Christianity was introduced by a French missionary who made a number of converts. Presently, however, the natives rose against the missionaries and for 200 years not a single foreigner remained excepting a small colony of Dutch which were allowed to live there. The seclusion was broken in 1854 by Commodore Perry and the Japanese were forced to accede to the demands for intercourse with foreigners. After Perry's landing western ideas began to secure a foothold in Japan. There was a revolution against Buddhism and Confucianism in 1868. The Shogun was deposed and the ancient line restored. The mikado has proven to be a wise and strong ruler. After the revolution the people expected to go back to their old seclusion but foreign ideas had found favor with the emperor, himself, and Japan's present position in the family of nations is largely due to him.

Became Limited Monarchy
In 1871 postal and telegraph systems were introduced and in 1893 the government was changed from an empire to a limited monarchy. A diet of two houses, one of them elected by the people, was created. The franchise however is not universal, being limited to the few who pay taxes. In 1894 Japan came into the circle of nations as the result of prestige gained in the war with China and in 1902 a treaty was entered into with Great Britain wherein the latter agreed to interfere if any two western nations should ever make war on Japan at the same time.

Japanese Characteristics
The Japanese characteristics are most interesting. In size the people are inferior to the western nations. The upper portion of their bodies seem well developed but the lower portion appears to be dwarfed—possibly as a result of the sitting posture they have long been accustomed to assume. As an individual the Jap is cheerful. The cares of life sit lightly upon him. He is intelligent and exceedingly polite. When he talks to a foreigner he is wont to deprecate his own country, though in reality he thinks it the best in the world. The family is the unit of the nation, rather than the individual. The Jap has a universal respect for authority. Even petty officers are obeyed implicitly. It is charged that he lacks steadfastness of purpose but the present war has vindicated him from that charge. In private dealings the Jap is said to be tricky. This defect may be due to his excessive politeness. In public affairs, however, there is none more trustworthy.

Do We Owe Russia Anything?
Speaking on the question "Are we, as a Nation, indebted to Russia for Past Acts?" Rev. Donson said that he was a Russian sympathizer, though not because of past acts and Russian friendliness for us—though history was not wanting in many examples. It was true that in the fall of 1863, during Civil war days when it looked dark for the republic, there appeared in New York harbor a Russian fleet. There was some question as to the purpose there and it has been stated that the fleet was there under sealed orders. Thus we owe Russia a debt of gratitude for a confirmation of this made by Admiral Farragut. Whatever those orders may have been, it is certain that the fleet was there and exerted a salutary influence for the union cause. In the harbor of San Francisco Russian war vessels appeared during the same period. It is certain that England and France were not our friends during that struggle and we must not question the fact that Russia exerted a real moral influence for us. The treaty of neutrals in which Catherine II. was interested was one of the causes that compelled England to admit our freedom. Alexander I. refused to accede to Napoleon's request that our commerce be shut out from the Baltic. Alexander was also interested in the treaty of Ghent which closed the war of 1812-14. Had England been in condition to do so, she was ready to send Wellington fresh from his continental victories, to wage war on the United States. In the war with Spain we had the unquestioned sympathy of Russia and in the sale of Alaska, though it was merely a matter of trade, we were allowed to have far the best of the bargain. But all this is not the reason for my sympathy. It is rather because of a feeling I have of the immense possibilities and needs of Russia—the undeveloped life of a people just beginning to play their part in history. Think of a people in some respects most religious, yet having a religion largely made up of forms and ceremonies and lacking all that impetus which has come to us, inculcating faith, patience, and brotherly love.

Good Team to Come
The University of Wisconsin has strong hopes of having a championship baseball nine next spring. Practically the same men are back in school and will play ball. Captain Lewis is the only one who has not returned but his position will be filled by a good man. The old men are Leahy, Gates, Hoelz, Persons, Perry, Brush, Roys and the two pitchers, Young and Foss.

WORN WITH A FANCY WAISTCOAT
The models of the directorate style have many new effects and hints to the tailor-made costumes, and not the least effective of these is the fancy waistcoat. With the mannish woolex materials these are very appropriate in the same goods as men use for their waistcoats, the fancy velvets, matlases and such. In the picture one of the smooth worsted cloths in a dull Oxford finish makes both coat and skirt. The double-breasted vest is of a fancy silk matlase, the reverses, interlined with a princess haircloth, are faced with a dull black satin, and the coat shows the closely fitted body portion, the hip seam and pocket flaps and full skirt that is so characteristic of the directorate period. The skirt is of the plain and practical kind, arranged in ninagores, and depends entirely upon lap and seams and the oscillating stitch of the sewing machine for its smartness.

GENERAL NEWS OF CAPITAL GOSSIP

FOOTBALL TALK IS VERY EN COURAGING AT PRESENT.

MUST FINISH SENTENCE

Good Prospects for Next Spring's Sports—New Railroad in the State.

Madison, Wis.—Although a hard practice game is assured for the Badgers Saturday against the Drake college, Iowa, eleven, Coaches Curtis and Cochems are consistently looking toward the contest with the Wolverines here a week from Saturday. So great is the desire to make all possible preparation for Yost's men that Drake does not get a thought in passing. The little Iowa college team rolled up a great score a few days ago against the Coe college team and will give the Badgers something to do, but the coaches will not call for a heavy score because of fear lest injuries be received to the Wisconsin leaders and the team be weakened for the Michigan game.

There are no wolf stories at Madison in contemplation of the contest with the big fellows from Ann Arbor. Hard luck stories may develop out of the extreme modesty of Coach Curtis and out of possible accidents between now and ten days hence, when the preparation for Michigan will be completed, but all is hope and determination here at the present writing.

E. J. Vanderboom has been "O. K." by the faculty. The establishment of this fact that the great half-back is eligible to play in the first championship game of the schedule is the most happy sign that has come here since the settlement of the "strike" a week ago. He was "conditioned" out of the university last year for poor work in the law school, but regained his standing by hard work in the university summer session. Had it not been for failures in class work he would now be the captain of the Badgers, for he was elected but had to give up the place on account of being conditioned. Sanford, a promising freshman back field man, and Johnson, a heavy candidate for guard, were disqualified for the championship games by the faculty committee, but their places are already well supplied.

Final Decision
Charles McCauley who is serving a term in state prison at Waupun for burglary, must remain in custody until the expiration of his term, regardless of the time he was a fugitive. His attorneys sought to release him on a writ of habeas corpus, setting up the claim that McCauley could not be held after the time of his original commitment, regardless of the fact that about three years were spent as an escaped convict. The supreme court upheld the prison warden for refusing to give the criminal credit as serving time while a fugitive.

Power of Bureaucracy
The political conditions are unspeakable. The czar, I think, is a good man but weak. He is surrounded by a bureaucracy which is responsible for many evils. He loves peace but was forced into war. These political conditions must enlist our sympathies. I am enough of an American to like big things. Think of the uncounted millions in semi-darkness waiting for the touch of new ideas which the 20th century has given us. (Continued on Page 7.)

capital stock is $25,000 and the proposed line will be 90 miles in length. Morton Eastman, M. S. Stickle, F. Krog, James Dolan and A. W. Kopp, all residents of Plattville, are the incorporators. The road is proposed to be built from Warren, J. Davless county, Ill., or Apple River in the same county, to Plattville, Grant county, Wis., thence to Lancaster and Bloomington in the same county; also from Ipswich, Lafayette county, to a point near New Dubuque, Jo Davless county, by a route through or near Shinnawa Mount, Grant county, with a branch from Cuba City in the same county to Hazel Green.

Fireman E. J. Gruel is laying off for a few days visiting his parents in Watertown.

Machinist Frank Drew is off duty today on account of sickness.

Assistant master mechanic, T. H. Wade of Chicago, formerly foreman in the roundhouse here will visit the St. Louis exposition in company with Foreman Erickson.

Engineer Talmage returned to work this morning on the switch engine.

Machinist James Crowley is off duty today, being on the sick list.

There were five extra stock trains through here last night.

Conductor Anderson is relieving conductor Smith on the Minnesota time freight.

The passenger depot will soon present the appearance of a new station if the work of repainting is done all through as thoroughly as that now being done in the ladies waiting room. All the old varnish and paint is being removed from the woodwork and the wall and ceiling are being freshly painted. The ceiling and border are of a deep flesh color and the wall a green or blue similar to the tint that was on previously.

Raine Lowry is taking a ten day's vacation, being relieved by M. Cronin.

Engine 113 of the coal road is in the St. Paul roundhouse for extensive repairs.

The following story of a railroad man working in the shops in Chicago was printed in yesterday morning's Chicago Chronicle under the heading "Chicago's Rip Van Winkle": "A Chicagoan saw the city's tall buildings for the first time yesterday. He wasn't a freshly-cured blind man, either, but a German, who for twenty-two years has been living in Gans, a little corner of Chicago, and came downtown for the first time yesterday.

"Theodore Behrens is the man. He lives at 11,802 State street and works in some railroad shops near by. Maybe he never would have come down to town, but he was summoned to do jury service and so had to venture into the heart of the city. He went through the streets in a daze, led by a trusted friend. He dodged street cars and autos and stretched his neck and worked himself into a high state of nervousness.

"I wish I had brought my wife to see all this," he said. "When the old man was excused from jury service he said: 'I guess I'll call on a friend of mine on Milwaukee avenue. I called on him twenty-two years ago.'

The Chicago & Northwestern railroad has installed at Lake Shore junction, at a cost of $30,000, an electric switch and derail system, to avert wrecks. An approaching train signals its coming when a mile and a half away. When a train has the right of way the derailing apparatus is set automatically so as to throw any trains on the other routes from the track, in case they approach the junction. Every track is a part of the electric circuit and an engine or car in a certain place will lock the apparatus at the depot so that no other train can be given the right of way.

The report that the Louisville & Nashville contemplates buying the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis railroad is flatly denied by officials of both companies.

The Western Passenger Association has granted a rate of 1 cent a mile for the Grand Army encampment to be held at Denver next summer.

HAIR TELLS CHARACTER.

Color of Hair Said to Indicate a Person's Temperament.

Many people believe that blonde, or light hair denotes affection and dark hair constancy. A person without hair is not devoid of character; far from it. The disposition of the average bald-headed man is to show such solicitude for the welfare of others, that he neglects himself. A person causes baldness. Prof. Salomon of Paris, France, in an accumulated a rabbit with Dandruff worms, causing it to become totally bald in five weeks' time. To rid the scalp of these dangerous worms it is necessary to apply Newbro's Hairpencil.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, October 19, 1864.—Accident.—Mr. William Clark, of the Big Mill, met with an accident yesterday that came near being very serious in its consequences. While examining some of the machinery in the basement of the mill his coat was drawn between a drum and a hand bringing Mr. Clark in contact with a timber tearing his coat from him and breaking the band. Had the garment and the hand been stronger the accident doubtless would have been fatal. As it was some severe bruises were the only results.

Coming Attractions.

THREE OF THE FORTY FAMOUS BEAUTIES IN "THE ROYAL CHEF"

Among the early attractions booked at the Myers Grand is the latest Chicago musical comedy success, "The Royal Chef." This organization of sixty people is under the management of Sam S. Shubert and is the same that played the record breaking run of over six months in Chicago. "The Royal Chef" is coming to this city in the near future. This is the musical comedy that created so much favorable comment when it ran twenty-three weeks in Chicago. The original company is to be seen here, including the famous "brothers," for such was the term used to designate the beauty chorus that has been characterized by the New York Herald as the best singing, dancing and looking ensemble ever seen in New York with a musical organization.

"Who's Brown?" Has anybody solved the mystery yet? It is high time some one has, since on next Friday evening at the Myers Grand "Who's Brown?" will be so emphatically explained, that the theatergoer who has been endeavoring to ascertain the information, will have nothing so exciting to talk about for days to come. Frankly "Who's Brown?" is a rattling comedy which after being introduced in London three years ago, and where it is still running, was secured for America by John T. Hall and William Morris. The latter gentleman whose work in such recent productions as "When We Were Twenty-One," and "Under the Red Robe," has won for him the highest regard as an artist, will have the role of chief fun maker of a company, already reported to be easily the strongest comedy organization seen here in a long time.

IMMENSE POTATO YIELD IN TURTLE

Gus Gates Raises Tubers, Weighing Three Pounds Each--From Early Ohio Balls.

Twenty-five bushels of potatoes the most of which weigh from two to three pounds each, is a record scored by Gus Gates, who lives in the town of Turtle. Many hills yielded eight and nine of these great potatoes. Mr. Gates said that he started out to develop big potatoes by planting balls from Early Ohio. The product increased in size during the past two years and Mr. Gates is now wondering how long before he will be raising potatoes the size of pumpkins. He raised his twenty-five bushels this year from one bushel of seed.

It will burn any kind of fuel nicely. One ton of hard coal will do the work in my furnace that two tons will in any other furnace made.

One ton of cheap fine coal will do better and more in my furnace than one ton of hard coal in any other furnace on the market.

You can have the cheapest hot water system in connection with my furnace you ever dreamed of, and can pipe the whole house if so desired.

The price of this furnace is within the reach of any man who owns a building, and is way below the cost of any other furnace made.

It will last indefinitely.

I am the inventor, sole owner and manufacturer; that is why prices are so low. Order now while conditions are thus. I guarantee my furnace to do exactly as I say. Write today for circular, descriptive matter and prices.

CARDUI BABIES

Many homes are more lonely because no children are there. Barrenness exists in almost every case because female diseases have paralyzed the organs of womanhood.

Wine of Cardui imparts health and strength to the diseased parts and makes motherhood possible in thousands of cases where barrenness is supposed to be incurable. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow and also prevents miscarriage and cures bearing down pains. Wine of Cardui removes the cause of barrenness by making the female organism strong and healthy.

Go to your druggist and secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui. The use of Wine of Cardui will bring happiness to your home.

Wine of Cardui is worth its weight in gold. It does more than you claim. It has saved my life and caused me to become a mother when everything else failed.

MRS. DORA I. E. LEFEVRE.

BRYANT, Va., Feb. 18, 1902.

My daughter-in-law, Lizzie Giles, found great benefit in Wine of Cardui. She had a miscarriage in March 1901, before using your medicine. She was in very bad health, so I persuaded her to try Wine of Cardui. Since then she has had a fine baby boy. Soon he will be three weeks old. She highly recommends Wine of Cardui.

My daughter, Fannie Hudson, also has a fine baby boy by your treatment. She highly appreciates Wine of Cardui.

MRS. LOUISA GILES.

FUNDS FOR THE CAMPAIGN.

So much lying is being done by a little string of New York papers, about President Roosevelt and Chairman Cortelyou, that the Wall Street Journal publishes the following clear statement of facts:

"The New York Times, the New York World and the Brooklyn Eagle continue to charge that Chairman Cortelyou is making pledges in return for campaign contributions to wards the re-election of President Roosevelt. Occasionally the same papers state that he is extorting contributions under threat. Honest men want to know the facts whether they be favorable or unfavorable to pre-conceived ideas or theories. It is possible that some honest men have been deceived by the apparently specific allegations of the three newspapers mentioned, and for the benefit of such men we beg to state the following facts—promising that we know them to be facts.

In the first place, Mr. Cortelyou was the direct choice of President Roosevelt for chairman of the national committee, and of no one else. In the second place, the President chose him in order that he might be perfectly sure that no pledge or threat, direct or indirect, implicit or explicit, would be made to anybody which could in any way hamper the president in the execution of the law against anyone who broke it.

In the third place, Mr. Cortelyou accepted the position with the definite understanding that he would make no such pledges or threats.

In the fourth place, no such pledges or threats have been made. The Eagle, the Times and the World say that such pledges or threats have been made. In saying this they say what is not true. There are but two possible explanations of their saying it. One is that they do not know it and the other is that they lie. The World already stands charged by the President of the United States with deliberate, gratuitous and circumstantial mendacity. It has neither the hardihood to attempt to prove its original assertion nor the manliness to withdraw it and offer proper apology. No honest man therefore need trouble himself about the statements of the World. As for the Times and Eagle it is probably charitable to suppose that they are the victims of that kind of self-deception which frequently accompanies hysteria in its more severe forms. We are willing to take this view of the matter, merely pointing out that these papers could safely elect their candidate by proving that any pledges or threats have been made on behalf of President Roosevelt. They will not do this for the reason that they cannot.

Mr. Cortelyou as chairman of the National Republican Committee is giving the country the cleanest presidential campaign that it has ever had so far as either of the political parties is concerned.

It is characteristic of the present campaign that he should be made the subject of an attack that is little less than a disgrace to decent journalism. The episode is notable for two things, the first of which is the straits in which the democratic party finds itself for lack of an issue, and the second of which is the depth to which sometimes intelligence and usually decent newspapers will fall during a presidential campaign. It is not difficult to discern the hand of Arthur Pue Gorman of Maryland in this particular case. The spectacle of this man impugning the honor of Chairman Cortelyou or President Roosevelt is enough to make the gorge of an ostrich rise.

Until the Times and the Eagle submit proof of their charges no honest man need pay any further attention to them.

SHORT OF ARGUMENT.

About the only thing Judge Parker could find to discuss in his opening campaign speech was the Philippine question. The democratic party is so destitute of issues this year, that any old issue is picked up, and so it is not at all surprising that Judge Parker, after 20 years of retirement, should start into the campaign four years behind time.

When Dewey with his gallant fleet sailed into Manila bay, that memorable morning, there came to the benighted islands the first gleam of light and Christian civilization that had ever dawned upon these far eastern shores.

It has required a little time to gain the confidence and overcome the suspicion which centuries of bondage and oppression had nurtured but history already records that the work of civilization is advancing rapidly, under the wise protection of the stars and stripes, and the intelligent direction of American statesmanship.

It would be a crime to adopt the policy suggested by Judge Parker, by turning these ignorant people loose to govern themselves before they are capable of self-government.

The guardianship of the Philippine Islands was bequeathed to this nation as the result of the most humane war that was ever conducted. It is a sacred trust, and the American people so regard it.

The islands have been redeemed, not by war, but by the spirit of humanity, which has actuated every plan and controlled every movement.

The land, which for centuries had been owned and controlled by the Friars, was not confiscated, as it might have been, but every holding has been bought and honorably paid for.

The religious bias of the people is recognized and respected, and American priests direct the affairs of church, while protestant schools contribute to enlightenment.

There is an old prophecy which says something about a nation being born in a day. This prophecy is being fulfilled in the Philippine Islands to the letter, and to a Christian nation all honor is due.

The republican party has guided the ship of state, while these transformation scenes have been transpiring, but back of the party has been the strong support of the American people.

Judge Parker mistakes public sentiment when he criticizes the policy adopted and the only support that he will have on this proposition is a little coterie of politicians.

Imperialism is simply an echo today so faint that it can not be recognized. This is a progressive age and Judge Parker is trailing too far behind the procession. If he and his party would be leaders a forward movement will be necessary.

WITHOUT FUEL.

The invention of Charles S. L. Baker, a negro of St. Joseph, Missouri, has demonstrated that it will produce enough heat to warm the largest building in that city in the coldest weather without the use of coal or wood. The heat is produced by friction. Baker's invention consists of a steel tube surrounded by a jacket and inside the tube a wooden roller cut into four triangular sections and arranged about a steel shaft. The water chamber outside of the tube is ten inches in diameter. A two horse-power motor is now used to operate the machine and tests have shown that at a speed of 700 revolutions it will heat 990 gallons of water to a temperature of 160 degrees in fifty-five minutes. At the rate of 700 revolutions steam is produced in five minutes from the instant the machine is started.—American Inventor.

If Mr. Baker's invention is practical he has solved one of the greatest problems of the age. The fact is generally recognized that more heat is wasted today than is utilized, and the time is ripe for electricity, or some other method to enter the field.

The ordinary furnace, as well as the ordinary boiler, is a coal consumer. Ten tons of coal is the average and half of it goes up the chimney. Mr. Baker is entitled to congratulation and every encouragement.

The fact is generally concealed in New York that the subway motormen is the most economical in the end, because it goes further in leavening and insures perfect, wholesome food.

When ordering of the grocer always call for Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder by name for good health and good food. It makes the finest cake, puddings, flapjacks, biscuits and bread.

were recently advanced to $3.50 a day to avoid a strike which might cost the democratic party the organized labor vote of New York. August Belmont is the principle owner of the subway and a prominent party leader. Labor and politics are queer bedfellows.

Farm labor in Germany commands 25 cents per day and unskilled labor in the cities 63 cents per day. The same class of labor in this country commands $1.25 and $1.50 per day. Is it any wonder that German thrift prospers on American soil? What we spend and not what we earn tells the story.

The tanners of Chicago have established the open shop and a ten-hour day. Justice, demanded the former and competition compelled the latter. Supply and demand is the great regulator.

Don't forget that you must vote a straight ticket before you can split your ballot.

Judge Haney of the Cook county supreme court, at Chicago, delivered one of the most stringent injunctions ever issued from that court. Two injunctions were given in behalf of twenty firms in Chicago, members of the Metal Traders Association, retaining the members of the District Lodge No. 8, International Association of Machinists, from picketing the plants of the complaining firms. The injunction goes further. It forbids the strikers and their sympathizers from even talking to the workmen of the complainants without the consent of those employers.

CHAPTER XV.

IF Mrs. Ward expected to startle Derrington into a confession she was never more mistaken in her calculations. Lord Derrington had not moved in diplomatic circles all his life without knowing how to guard against the display of emotion. With an utterly expressionless face he looked at the stiletto. It was a slender steel blade with a silver handle of renaissance workmanship, evidently a valuable and curious relic of the middle ages. But Derrington stared at it as though he knew nothing about it.

"Well," said Mrs. Ward sharply and rather disappointed he did not grovel on the instant, "what do you say?"

"Derrington looked at her in rather a humorous manner. 'What do you want me to say?' he asked. 'Confess that I killed Mrs. Jersey and then brought this weapon carefully home in my pocket for you to discover and use against me?'"

"That is a subterfuge," said Mrs. Ward. "You did not expect to find me waiting for you, and you never meant that dagger to be discovered, Lord Derrington."

"I certainly never did," he assented heartily. "I cannot imagine how you came to know more than I did."

"What do you mean?" asked the little woman sharply.

"Well, you see," said Lord Derrington quietly, "this is a very clever bit of business on your part, but so far as I am concerned it has nothing to do with me. I never saw that weapon before."

"Oh, that's rubbish!" said Mrs. Ward with a mirthless laugh. "I found it in the pocket of your fur coat on the very—"

"You say you found it there," said Derrington merrily.

"Do you deny that it was in the pocket?"

"Certainly. Had it been in the pocket I should have known it was there. But it was not in the pocket."

Mrs. Ward stared. "You are very brazen," she said. "You knew it was there all the time."

"In the pocket?" asked Derrington politely and perfectly calm.

Mrs. Ward hesitated. Then she faced him defiantly. "I am so sure of my ground," she declared, "that I don't mind saying it wasn't exactly in the pocket. There was a hole in the pocket, and the dagger had slipped down into the lining between the inside fur and the outer cloth. It lay sideways, and what with its position and the heavy fur—"

"I could not have known it was there," finished Derrington, balancing a paper cutter on his forefinger. "You have found a mare's nest, my dear Mrs. Ward, and if this is your trump card I am sorry to say it won't take the trick you wish to score. I did not know that this—he touched the stiletto—was in the lining of my fur coat."

"Then it was, and Mrs. Jersey was stabbed with it."

"Isn't that taking a great deal for granted?" said Derrington, with raised brows. "Mrs. Jersey, according to the doctor, if I recall the report of the inquest rightly, was certainly stabbed with a weapon similar to this, but why do you say this is the one?"

"Because I believe you were in the house on that night."

"Which house? Be explicit, please."

Mrs. Ward was growing angry at this calm defiance. "In the house in Amelia square. You went there to prevent that Brendon creature from making Mrs. Jersey confess."

Lord Derrington laughed. "You would not make a good lawyer," said he. "By your own showing I did not know that Brendon was to be at Mrs. Jersey's on that night."

"I certainly came to tell you," said Mrs. Ward, feeling that she had missed a point, "but you could easily have heard it elsewhere."

"Who from? Brendon did not advertise in the papers that he was stopping with Mrs. Jersey on the night in question."

The little woman rose to her feet with an artificial laugh and shook out perfume from her silver skirts. "You are very clever and obstinate, Lord Derrington, but how will you explain this?" she pointed to the stiletto—"to the authorities?"

"There will be no need for me to do that," said Derrington, and took up the weapon. Mrs. Ward stretched out her hand.

"My property, if you please, Lord Derrington."

The old gentleman opened a drawer, dropped the weapon into it and closed the drawer with a snap. "It's locked now," he said coolly. "I shall take charge of this."

"How dare you? I insist!"

"Oh, dear, no! You insist on nothing," Lord Derrington rose, looking like a giant as he towered over the little woman. "My dear Mrs. Ward," said he quietly, but in his deepest tones, "I have been very patient with you, but this thing must end. You must promise to hold your tongue about Brendon and—"

"And about you, I suppose," she sneered.

"About me?" Derrington's tone expressed surprise. "What have you to hold your tongue about as regards me?"

Mrs. Ward stamped, though as a rule she was not given to betraying violent emotion. "Oh, it's too ridiculous!" she said furiously. "I can say to the police how I found the stiletto in your coat."

"I should advise you not to talk to any one about a thing which exists only in your imagination."

"The stiletto!"

"What are you talking of, Mrs. Ward?"

"It's in that drawer," she pointed to the table.

"Oh, dear, no, it isn't," said Derrington bluntly; "there is no stiletto; there never was one. We have had a nice talk, and now we must part."

"Not before I have had my say," said Mrs. Ward savagely. "I see perfectly well that I have been foolish to let that stiletto get into your hands, but I thought I was dealing with a man of honor."

"Ah, Mrs. Ward, few of us can aspire to your high principles!"

The sneer infuriated her. "You can deny the stiletto if you like to the public, but you dare not do so to me."

"Why not? For the sake of argument I will admit the existence of the weapon. You come here with it in your hand and state that you found it in my coat—in the lining of the coat. By doing so you have defeated your own object. Had you produced the weapon from the coat and showed it to me at the very moment, your accusation might have held water. As it is the thing is simply ridiculous. You come here, you accuse me of a crime—"

"I did not accuse you," said Mrs. Ward, beginning to find that Derrington was too much even for her. "I believe Brendon killed the woman—oh, yes! You went to the house, and you saw him. He and Mrs. Jersey had words, as she would not confess, and Brendon killed her with the stiletto. Then you came in, and to save him you put the dagger into my pocket, sent him up to bed and promised to hold your tongue, and—"

Derrington laughed. "You have a most vivid imagination, Mrs. Ward," he said, with a shrug; "but, as it happens, you are talking nonsense. I was not at Amelia square that evening, but at my club, as any member then present can assure you. I can prove an alibi from the minute I left this house to the minute I returned to find you here. As to the stiletto you say you took out of my pocket, that is rubbish. On the whole, I think you had better hold your tongue."

"If I go to the police they will open that drawer."

"Oh, no! An Englishman's house is his castle, you know, and a man in my position cannot be treated in the way you suggest with impunity. Moreover, Mrs. Ward, there is ample time to destroy the stiletto."

"Which you will do," she said, recovering her composure now that she found it was useless to protest.

"No, I wouldn't even mind showing it to the police and saying how you brought it here with an accusation. If the police can prove that this is the weapon with which Mrs. Jersey was stabbed, and if you and the police can prove that the stiletto was in my pocket on the night of the murder, then you and the police are extremely clever."

"Oh, very well," said Mrs. Ward, realizing her defeat. "I shall say nothing about you. But Brendon—"

"You will hold your tongue about him also. I quite understand how you proposed to hold this stiletto and the tale of its being discovered in my pocket over me. If I did not consent to the marriage of Miss Ward and Walter—"

"She shall marry him."

"Why do you hate Brendon so?" asked Derrington. "I know he is a strong man, and for the money's sake you do not want him to be your son-in-law. But even this does not account for your hatred. Why do you hate him?"

"I have nothing to say," retorted Mrs. Ward, who had flushed and paled alternately during this speech. "Please see me to the door."

Derrington walked to the door and opened it with a bow. "Willingly, I think we understand one another. I am sorry to ask you to leave me so soon, as our conversation was most enjoyable. But I have to see a certain Mr. Ireland."

"Is that Brendon's guardian?" asked Mrs. Ward, coming to a sudden stop in the hall.

"His former guardian," corrected Derrington. "How do you come to know of him, Mrs. Ward?"

"I think Dorothy mentioned the name," she said in rather a faltering tone. "Please tell your man to call a cab. I sent away the carriage."

"Let me send you home in mine."

"No! No! I want to go at once," and she approached the door quickly.

"When did you say Mr. Ireland was coming?"

Derrington glanced at his watch. "He is due now," he said and looked at her, wondering why she asked the question.

Mrs. Ward's face was turned away. She was dressed in furs and carried a muff. When the door was opened the footman a gentleman appeared on the threshold. Mrs. Ward lifted her muff to her face, but not before the stranger had caught sight of her face and had uttered an ejaculation of surprise. "You!" he said, stepping forward.

"What do you mean?" said Mrs. Ward, with her face still hidden.

"Lord Derrington, this friend of yours—"

TWILIGHT CLUB TALK EASTERN WAR

sympathy for a people in the third of superstition. Russia will awaken. Her students are among the most eager in the world. It has been said that one may not know what eagerness is until he has looked into the face of one of these Russian zealots. It seems to me we owe them a debt of sympathy on account of their deep need.

War Should Cease

What can America do? It is an indictment to our common sense, to our reason, to our civilization that all Christendom should be so shackled with greed, that there should not be enough unity among sects and denominations to say to this terrible destruction—It shall go no further! Russia has two things to learn—Thou shalt not steal and thou shalt not lie. She promised to get out of Manchuria and broke her agreements.

Commercial Possibilities

T. O. Howe took the stand that our commercial interests would be more benefited by Japanese than Russian success. He laid down the broad principle that we should foster that trade which will take out surplus output of products peculiar to our own country. In considering a whether there was a growing demand for the United States, he showed large quantities of raw cotton, illuminating oil, and foodstuffs in Japan, and that the demand was on the increase notwithstanding the fact that Russia was becoming a dangerous competitor in the two latter products. Japan has increased her trade with the United States in a greater proportion than with any other nation. This was probably true because this country is Japan's biggest customer, buying immense quantities of raw silk which have built up our silk mills to the detriment of those in France. The completion of the Isthmian canal will serve to increase this trade.

On the other hand, if Russia is victorious, she will endeavor to maintain the privileges heretofore claimed. With her grain and oil fields she will dominate the trade of the far east to our detriment. The speaker did not believe that trade difficulties could be settled by any decrease of state. When the conflict shall end our government will have a representative at the conclave. If Japan is victorious the American shipper will have the same friend as now—the Jap. If the Japanese merchant had not yet learned that fair dealing is one of the assets of trade, this knowledge and policy was bound to come with increased experience.

Exporting More Manufactures

Victor P. Richardson took the stand that our commercial interests would be promoted by a Russian victory. Japan was a country about the size of California. Russia was over twice the size of the United States, and had twice the people. Trade comes from the development of natural resources, he said, and Russian development is certain to come, fostered as it already is by the government which owns two-thirds of the forest, one-third of the land, operates valuable mines, as well as its immense railway. It was true that Russia had already producing breadstuffs and minerals, but she would enter into serious competition with our products. But United States is gradually coming to have a market sufficient for its breadstuffs. The opening up of new areas in Russia calls for manufactures and between 1898 and 1903 our direct exports to that country increased from eight to seventeen millions. Under ordinary conditions if Russia was to be the future grain producer it would also be the consumer of American manufactures.

The "Yellow Peril"

Fred Clemons would not commit himself on "The Yellow Peril." When two nations or races assimilated there came to be a different relationship from that which had before existed. Each underwent a change in economic, social, and racial conditions. It was difficult enough to trace these changes after they had occurred and to forecast the result of a merging of the Japanese and Chinese with any certainty would be an almost impossible task. The possibility of the yellow races overrunning and humiliating the world with their armies he did not consider plausible but the economic danger to competitors of an awakened China with her great natural resources and millions of thrifty people with a low standard of living could not be gainsaid. From an economic standpoint the situation was full of peril to the white races.

Impromptu Remarks

After the regular speakers had finished the discussion was thrown open to all. A. T. Matheson suggested in connection with the stand that Rev. Denison had taken that sympathy for the Russian people did not necessarily mean sympathy for the bureaucracy conducting the war, and asked if it might not be true that a victory for Japan would be the best thing that could happen to the Russian people—not the government, for its prestige would be injured, but the great body of the people. Judge Fitch thought that the sympathy of the United States had gone out to the poor people. Russia had been our friend not only in the civil war but during the Revolutionary war. The Russian government, he thought, had been maligned. The exile system, now abolished, had not been as bad as pictured. In some of its phases it was better than the prison system. The fact that Russia, of its own volition, freed her slaves in 1861 and allotted to each a parcel of about fifteen acres of land seemed to show that the government was not as bad as represented. Our trade with Russia was only in its infancy, yet its cessation on account of our pronounced sympathy with Japan, had caused at least one factory in Chicago to shut down.

Deserve the Trouncing

Rev. Vaughan said that he believed that at the end of the next century there would be three great peoples, the English speaking races, the Slav, and the Chinese. But the question ought to be discussed on a higher plane than possible advantage in trade. The predatory character of the Russian government was known to all. It wrested from Japan, the fruits of her victory over the Chinese, and then in answer to Japanese diplomacy hurried its armies to the east. If the speaker should find two boys in an orchard, one an overgrown youth with his blouse full of apples, for the good of the boy he would be apt to decide that a trouncing would be the right thing. The real interests of Russia demand this. Over a hundred years ago George III. set up a personal tyranny. He had to hire mercenaries to fight the colonists in America. What destroyed that tyranny?—Yorktown. The best thing for the people of Great Britain at that time was the defeat of its government. The Russian bureaucracy had crushed Finland and was seeking by thievery to advance in the east. Japan represents the west and Russia the east. The east has stood for absolutism and the suppression of the individual, the west for freedom. The speaker hoped that the Japs would drive the Russians out of the territory they were seeking to steal and hoped that the entire Russian navy would soon be of the stationary submarine type.

Why Von Plehve Fell

Marshall Richardson quoted Andrew D. White, former ambassador to Russia, as saying that the condition of Russia was the worst that had existed in any country for a hundred years. The Finns, an intelligent, useful, and prosperous people, had been deprived of their constitutional rights—recognized when Finland became a part of Russia—without cause. The Jews were massacred and the Finns put down with the direct authority of Minister Von Plehve; his narrow bigotry and ambition to be at the head of the bureaucracy being the leading motives. The speaker called attention to the fact that the Russian slaves were not blacks, but peasant-ry, and that the czar granted them their liberty only after he had been beaten in the Crimean war. Edward Ryan remarked that he didn't call any stock in the arrogant patriots who condemned the Finns for oppression placency nor government go to the Philippines and commit every crime with which the Russian government was charged. Rev. Tippet, professed to see the hand of an over-ruling God in the defeat of Russia, whose people were sunk in ignorance and superstition, and Rev. Gobel asked what about the Bible's assurance that "Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth." He said Russia was a religious nation. The people believed in Christ, as we do. He did not believe that the use of images involved superstition. People hung up pictures of their human martyrs such as Lincoln and McKinley. Russia believed in and had more sacrifices than we have. Except the hope of Rome, John Cunningham said it was not a question of religion or likes and dislikes but of right. Japan was fighting to force Russia to keep her promises—to maintain the open door in the east. The treaty in which it was stipulated that Russia should do this was signed during the Boxer uprising. The other nations abided by it. Russia staid and fortified. Japan had the courage to tell her to get out and to set about the task of putting her out.

The speaker called attention to the fact that the Russian slaves were not blacks, but peasant-ry, and that the czar granted them their liberty only after he had been beaten in the Crimean war. Rev. Tippet, professed to see the hand of an over-ruling God in the defeat of Russia, whose people were sunk in ignorance and superstition, and Rev. Gobel asked what about the Bible's assurance that "Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth." He said Russia was a religious nation. The people believed in Christ, as we do. He did not believe that the use of images involved superstition. People hung up pictures of their human martyrs such as Lincoln and McKinley. Russia believed in and had more sacrifices than we have. Except the hope of Rome, John Cunningham said it was not a question of religion or likes and dislikes but of right. Japan was fighting to force Russia to keep her promises—to maintain the open door in the east. The treaty in which it was stipulated that Russia should do this was signed during the Boxer uprising. The other nations abided by it. Russia staid and fortified. Japan had the courage to tell her to get out and to set about the task of putting her out.

It wrested from Japan, the fruits of her victory over the Chinese, and then in answer to Japanese diplomacy hurried its armies to the east. If the speaker should find two boys in an orchard, one an overgrown youth with his blouse full of apples, for the good of the boy he would be apt to decide that a trouncing would be the right thing. The real interests of Russia demand this. Over a hundred years ago George III. set up a personal tyranny. He had to hire mercenaries to fight the colonists in America. What destroyed that tyranny?—Yorktown. The best thing for the people of Great Britain at that time was the defeat of its government. The Russian bureaucracy had crushed Finland and was seeking by thievery to advance in the east. Japan represents the west and Russia the east. The east has stood for absolutism and the suppression of the individual, the west for freedom. The speaker hoped that the Japs would drive the Russians out of the territory they were seeking to steal and hoped that the entire Russian navy would soon be of the stationary submarine type.

Why Von Plehve Fell

Marshall Richardson quoted Andrew D. White, former ambassador to Russia, as saying that the condition of Russia was the worst that had existed in any country for a hundred years. The Finns, an intelligent, useful, and prosperous people, had been deprived of their constitutional rights—recognized when Finland became a part of Russia—without cause. The Jews were massacred and the Finns put down with the direct authority of Minister Von Plehve; his narrow bigotry and ambition to be at the head of the bureaucracy being the leading motives. The speaker called attention to the fact that the Russian slaves were not blacks, but peasant-ry, and that the czar granted them their liberty only after he had been beaten in the Crimean war. ### AUTOMOBILE PLUNGES OVER BRIDGE ABUTMENT

One Man Is Crushed to Death Beneath the Machine, While His Companions Are Seriously Hurt.

Springfield, O., Oct. 19.—Vernon Middleton of this city lost his life and three companions were injured shortly before 3 o'clock Tuesday morning when the heavy touring car he was driving plunged over the abutments of the new bridge over Mad river, near Tremont City, this county.

Charles R. Murphy, whose wife is visiting in Sidney, and Mrs. Eugene Hundley, whose husband is in Arkansas, were in the party. Middleton's companion was Mrs. Virginia Wilkins, a widow. The three were injured, but all will probably recover.

Suits will, it is said, be brought against the commissioners of Clark county, for, according to the story of the survivors, no warning lights were displayed that the old bridge was out.

The auto ran over the abutment of the new bridge and fell twenty feet to the bed of the stream. Middleton was picked up and lived about fifteen minutes after the accident. Murphy was bruised and torn by the fall, but will recover.

Mrs. Wilkins was the most seriously hurt, but it is thought there are no internal injuries. One arm was broken. Mrs. Hundley is badly bruised.

It was found that the machine had turned upside down and that it had struck Middleton full in the chest, crushing the life out of him. "My God, Turk," he gasped to Murphy, and that was the last word he uttered.

T. J. ZIEGLER CLOTHING COMPANY,

Janesville's Agent for the Lewis Underwear for Men

WE invite the closest inspection of either of our lines of the Lewis Underwear. If you have not seen the Lewis garments, you ought to investigate them before you buy your Fall Underwear. We want you to notice the stitching, sewing, trimmings—how firmly the buttons are sewed on; SMALL POINTS in themselves, but combined mean perfection.

Lewis Combination Suits are made in the most complete assortment of styles and sizes. The Lewis Bros. new Underwear, which is called the "Janesville," is sold at a popular price of $3.00, $4.00 and $5.00 for the COMBINATION GARMENT made up in Balbriggan, Wool, Seltrain or Egyptian Cotton, every garment having been given the same care in making as any of the high priced garments.

Remember the Lewis Union Suits have been so long before the public that they have ceased to be an experiment, and those who have been wearing them cannot be induced to go back to the old style of two piece garment again.

To those who are compelled to have their garments made to order, we would urge you to place order at once, as it requires 10 days to two weeks to complete garments from special measurements.

We show a large line of the Lewis Union Garments, also samples of anything which they make.

Lewis Abdominal Bands, $1.00 and $1.50.
